Can a photovoltaic system power a streetlight?

As mentioned, photovoltaic systems that utilize solar energy to generate power can be used in various applications. This energy can be used in large and small scales such as in solar power plants and in street lighting [23,24]. Streetlights can be powered independently by PV systems, even without a network connection.

What is a bidirectional DC/DC converter?

Bidirectional DC/DC converters are used in a variety of applications such as fuel cell vehicles, battery chargers/dischargers, and uninterruptible power supply (UPS) systems. These converters play a very important role in renewable systems such as fuel cell systems, PV systems, and wind power systems [8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13].

What is the difference between isolated and non-isolated bidirectional converters?

The isolated bidirectional converter, with more than four switches and an isolated transformer, exhibits higher conduction losses and lower efficiency compared with its non-isolated counterpart. Conversely, the non-isolated bidirectional converter offers high efficiency due to its simpler configuration [17, 18, 19].

What is a bidirectional boost converter?

This article introduces a bidirectional boost converter to manage PV-powered LED lighting and battery storage. To enhance efficiency, a soft-switched version of the converter is created by incorporating an L-C-Switch series resonant circuit into the standard bidirectional DC/DC converter.

How DC/DC converter is used to harvest PV energy & feed LED light?

This system has a soft-switching bidirectionaldc/dc converter to harvest PV energy and feed LED light. As is observed in the figure, the proposed converter is fed current at both input and output ports which is a desirable feature of the converter in terms of the battery, PV energy, and LED light.

What is a ZVS bidirectional boost converter?

This research introduces a novel approach involving a ZVS (zero-voltage switching) bidirectional boost converter to manage the interaction among the PV panel, LED lights, and battery storage within the system.

In this study, the PET (photo-electro-thermal) theory is harnessed, coupled with insights into heatsink characteristics and the application of a soft-switching bidirectional boost ...
